SPECIAL CABLES.

FROM THE "HERALD'S" LONDON CORRESPONDENTS.

ANGLO-FRENCH AMENITIES.

LONDON MERCHANTS IN PARIS.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC BANQUET.

LONDON, Oct. 29. Two hundred representatives of the London International and Commercial Association, who are on a visit to Paris, were entertained at a banquet yesterday by the merchants of Paris. The proceedings were enthusiastic. M. Combes, the Prime Minister, and M. Trouillot, the Minister for Commerce, were present. The speeches delivered emphasized the growth of the entente cordiale between Great Britain and France.

(The banquet mentioned in the above cable was for the French and English delegates to the Paris Conference on the subject of the International Commercial Association, which is being held at the Hotel de Ville, Paris, under the patronage of the French Government.)

THE GOVERNOR OF THE CAUCASUS.

ATTEMPT ON HIS LIFE.

BY ARMENIAN REVOLUTIONARIES.

LONDON, Oct. 29. While Prince Galitzin, the Governor of the Caucasus, was driving with his wife in a motor car on Tuesday, three men attempted to assassinate him. The Prince received two shots on his head.

The Cossack guard pursued the assassins and killed them.

The inhabitants of the city are indignant at the outrage, as Prince Galitzin is popular and is solicited for the welfare of his people.

Later, the Vienna correspondent of the "Standard" says that the attempt on the life of Prince Galitzin at Tiflis was doubtless due to the seizure of the revenues of the Armenian Church by Russia. This revenue the Armenian revolutionaries considered to be their national property.

It is generally known that Prince Galitzin is recommended that the Minister of the Interior should assume control of the property of the Armenian Church, on the ground that a large proportion of its revenues was devoted to Armenian revolutionary propaganda.

THE CZAR.

LETTER TO PRESIDENT LOUBET.

LONDON, Oct. 29. Count Lamsdorf, the Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs, has presented to President Loubet an autograph letter from the Czar. Count Lamsdorf had an interview with President Loubet extending over an hour.

THE PRESIDENT OF MEXICO.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

LONDON, Oct. 29. A man named Toranzo, a noted criminal, who had just been released from prison, made an attempt to assassinate President Diaz, in Mexico City yesterday.

Toranzo fired five shots at the President, but fortunately none of the shots hit him.

IRELAND.

A NATIONAL UNIVERSITY.

MR. WYNDHAM'S PROPOSAL.

THE EXISTING COLLEGES.

LONDON, Oct. 29. Mr. George Wyndham, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, is preparing a bill for instituting one national university for Protestants and Roman Catholics of Ireland. Education of Protestants and Roman Catholics will be in common, and there will be proper safeguards of the students' religion.

The university will consist of three constituent, self-governing colleges, viz., Trinity College, Dublin; Queen's College, Belfast; and the Catholic College, St. Stephen's Green. The last-named at the outset is to be controlled by laymen.

It is reported that the Government will offer Trinity College £10,000 a year if it will support the bill. It is also stated that the Government will offer to endow Queen's College with £15,000 a year, and the Catholic College with £45,000 a year.

LAND PURCHASE.

A NATIONALIST'S ESTATE.

LONDON, Oct. 29. Tenant farmers in Ireland condemn Mr. J. E. Redmond, M.P., leader of the Irish Nationalists, for selling his Wexford estates at 24 years purchase after his organisation had recommended 18 years purchase as the basis of purchase.

THE UNEMPLOYED PROBLEM.

TO BE TAKEN UP BY THE CHURCHES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

The Rev. R. J. Campbell, who succeeded the Rev. Dr. Parker in the pastorate of the City Temple, Holborn Vaux, in conjunction with the Christian Social Brotherhood, is convening for November 5 a conference of all the Metropolitan Evangelical Churches in order to try to find work for all the unemployed.

Mr. Campbell relies largely upon the London County Council and the Government introducing vast public works during periods of stagnation.

It is proposed by Mr. Campbell that the remuneration to the workers, whilst it should be reasonable, should be insufficient to induce the men always to seek Government employment.

RE-ELECTION OF MINISTERS.

BRITISH FISCAL POLICY.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S CAMPAIGN.

SPEECHES AT LIVERPOOL.

DO TAXES AFFECT PRICES?

THE OBJECTIONS OF FREEDRADMEN.

OPERATION OF RECIPROCITY.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

Mr. Chamberlain was entertained at luncheon at the Town Hall, Liverpool, yesterday. There were present 250 representative guests.

In responding to the toast of his health, Mr. Chamberlain said: "The fiscal problem is no party question. It touches every single member of the community. It cannot be regarded as a matter between the 'outs' and the 'ins.' While some of my best party friends differ from me on this question, the most distinguished of my opponents, and an enormous multitude of those voting against me on ordinary political reasons, are willing on this matter to give me a favourable consideration."

TAXES AND PRICES.

Replying to Viscount Goschen's arguments, Mr. Chamberlain quoted the corn duties in France, Germany, and Sweden, and the prices in those countries, and compared them with the prices in Great Britain, with a view of confirming the contention of such authorities as John Stuart Mill, Professor Selous, Professor Ashworth, and Professor Nicholson, that the foreign export duties, which are a part of the country's duties, Statistics, Mr. Chamberlain said, showed that the extra price of food was not in proportion to the amount of tax imposed.

It was remarkable that the proposed revision of our fiscal policy had been received abroad with general approval. Mr. Chamberlain said that if it could not meet us in a reciprocal spirit, and we were to retaliate, they and not the British consumer, would pay the duty.

BRUTAL AND ARBITRARY TAXATION.

"The freetraders declare," he said, "that a tax on imports is for purely revenue purposes, and is justifiable. According to them it is a good tax if it benefits the Exchequer without doing a halfpenny's worth of good to anyone else. But, if, incidentally, it tax benefits any interest of the country, if it benefits the whole country, advancing the great ideal of Imperialism, then it is anathema."

"I call that preposterous," said Mr. Chamberlain.

"It is a misapprehension of the Government's duty to say that the nation should support the Government so long as it takes the money from the people's pockets, however burdensome the tax may be, but that if the Government act as managers of a great undertaking, and in the shareholders' interests, make it a part of their duty to watch everything abroad, and give a turn to assist their own people, then such a Government is not worth the confidence of the nation."

"All this springs from the bad doctrine of 'laissez faire,' which was the bottom of the whole policy of the freetraders before we appreciated our position as a great Imperial power."

THE MOST FAVOURED NATION CLAUSE.

Mr. Chamberlain incidentally urged that the Anglo-French commercial treaty was reciprocal and preferential. "We reduced the duties on French wines, but how did that benefit the countries to whom we extended the most favoured nation clause?"

"Germany gave Russia a preference in the matter of petroleum. The advantage was Germany's. The extension of a similar preference to England in the matter of petroleum was not much felt."

Mr. Chamberlain continued, "I raised the controversy to illustrate the contrast between the policy of the freetraders and the policy of the Empire. Except for one of these objects, my sense of responsibility towards the country, I would not have taken off my coat for a contest of this magnitude."

THE GREAT FUTURE.

"It is the policy of freetraders to say that Imperial Britain is venerable, old with honours. Yes, old. But the Empire is new, and in that new Empire we shall find a share with our kinsmen and their children in a joint future greater than anything to which we can look back."

Mr. Chamberlain received a great and continued ovation on his appearance on the balcony overlooking the arena. Exchange from a large, vast crowd in the open space below.

ANOTHER ADDRESS TO THE WORKERS.

CYCLE OF DEPRESSION PREDICTED.

THE EXTENT OF PAUPERISM.

TRADE FILCHED FROM ENGLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

Mr. Chamberlain delivered an enthusiastic and telling speech in St. George's Hall, Liverpool, last night, in responding to an address from the Conservative Workingmen's Association, contained in a basket.

Mr. Chamberlain said: "I rejoice to feel that I retain the confidence of the great majority of the workers, upon whom the prosperity and the life of the kingdom depend. If I am not deceived, the success of my mission, I do not doubt it now."

FACTORS OF HIS SUCCESS.

"I have noted in Liverpool something more than a party support. I have noted a belief in my sincerity. In the fact that I have no personal object to serve in carrying out my duty across the length and breadth of the land."

"Another factor is that everybody is concerned in the solution of a problem revolving itself into a question of continuous employment."

"The improvement in the condition of some foreign workpeople is more rapid than has been the improvement in the condition of British workpeople."

"What country is there in the civilised world where so much is spent in pauperism proportionately to the population as in Great Britain?"

FAIR WAGES AND CONTINUOUS EMPLOYMENT.

"It may be an exaggeration to say that one-third of our population is on the verge of starvation, but it is to be feared that at that attenuated statement. Moreover, the statistics of political economists are misleading. They deal only with the highest class of workmen. They never deal with the amount of individual employment. They deal with average wages."

"I am told that the Liverpool dock labourer has fair wages, but has he continuous employment?"

Cries of "No."

"Of what advantage are fair wages if he works once or twice a week, and then sits idle for the greater part of the year? The greater the regular employment is the greater will be the workers' prosperity. Wages will rise without harming anybody."

TRADES TAKEN FROM BRITAIN.

"Look at the industries which are going from us on which have gone, eluded from us by unfair means. Witness the depression in the watch trade at Freetown, owing to the Americans dumping 20,000 watches on us at any price they will fetch."

"Two hundred and forty million bottles come from Germany. Have the Germans any special facility for making bottles? (Cries of "No.")

"This branch of industry in glass is seriously injured. The plate-glass manufacturers formerly employed 20,000 English workmen. All that has gone."

"Warrington's former exports of wire exceeded the whole output of Germany. Now German exports exceed the whole make of wire in England."

Mr. Chamberlain concluded by predicting a cycle of bad trade. When, he could not say, "That cycle of bad trade would bring further misery and depression. Then if it had not done so before the country would alter its fiscal policy."

THE POSITION OF THE COLONIES.

THEIR WISHES NOT ASCERTAINED.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

The "Standard" says that there is no evidence that the colonies, collectively or individually, desire commercial reciprocity. The protectionist colonies, the Journal adds, exhibit no intention of lowering their tariffs, and the abandonment of the established British system may be unpopular with the freetrader colonies.

The "Standard" comments, "It is discouraging to find that so little effort is made to meet these difficulties."

CANADA AND SOUTH AFRICA.

AN OFFER OF PREFERENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

The Canadian Cabinet has decided to offer the South African colonies a preference of 33.33 per cent. in return for tariff concessions from them.

BRITISH SHIPPING LAWS.

OWNERS DESIRE RECONSIDERATION.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

The Liverpool Shipowners' Association has resolved to ask the Government to change the maritime laws of the world in consequence of the operation of the navigation laws of foreign countries, the time has arrived to reconsider the laws and the conditions affecting British shipping.

THE FAR EAST.

RUSSIAN OCCUPATION OF KOREA.

AN OFFICIAL EXPLANATION.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

Mr. Pavlov, the Russian Minister at Peking, explains that the "legend" of the Russian occupation of Korea arose from a private report of a concessionaire employing 2000 Russian labourers, who were mistaken for Cossacks because, following ancient traditions, they insisted upon carrying sword bayonets and long knives.

THE REV. J. A. DOWIE.

A "DUCAL CORONET" STORY.

HISSED BY AN AUDIENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

The Rev. J. A. Dowie, the originator of the Christian Church in Zion, in reply to the charge that he had not supported his father, declared that John Murray, his father, was a man of great character. His father, Mr. Dowie explained, was one of the officers of the "Light Brigade" in the Crimea, and was entitled to wear a ducal coronet.

His father, he added, entangled his mother into a Scotch marriage and then deserted her.

The audience hissed Dowie for the defamations of his mother.

CLOSING THE CAMPAIGN.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

The Rev. J. A. Dowie is closing his campaign in New York a week earlier than he had planned.

DENIAL BY HIS BROTHER.

ADELAIDE, Thursday.

Mr. Andrew Dowie, brother of the Rev. John Alexander Dowie, of Zion City, states that the allegations regarding Dowie's father, which have been made in the press, are entirely untrue. He was married by the Rev. Dr. Hunter, of Zion Church, Edinburgh, and afterwards attended a place of worship in the same city. Dowie was also a member and lay preacher of many churches. He died in Adelaide about nine or ten years ago.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

Mr. T. C. Kerry is suing the underwriters at Lloyd's to recover £10,000 on the insurance policy of the yacht Arcturion. Mr. Kerry is being subjected to a drastic cross-examination.

(The Arcturion left Southampton on September 19, 1900, bound for Sydney, was driven ashore on the New Zealand coast, and was wrecked. Kerry, the master, Murray, and a woman were charged in New Zealand with having stolen the yacht. Kerry was acquitted, but Murray was convicted of stealing the yacht. Kerry is now in a country whose birth rate is at present in a low country which we hold, but of which we only occupy a fraction, and of which we get not a minute fraction—these are the facts of the case.)
